Which insurance do you need?

Third party insurance	covers damage to third persons and their property caused by the vehicle
Partial cover insurance	covers damages of the possessed vehicle caused by theft, acts of God, fire, vandalism, martens, etc.
Collision insurance	additionally to partial cover insurance, covers also self-inflicted collision damage of the vehicle. Partial cover and collision damage are combined in the comprehensive insurance
Passengers' accident insurance	covers damage to persons in the own vehicle, i.e. driver and passengers

Note: Apart from third party insurance, all insurances are optional. Find more details on the different insurance companies from page 10.

- How do you proceed in order to make use of your saving potential?
- Compare the premiums of the different insurances
- Request non-binding offers from those insurance companies with advantageous conditions for you.
- When comparing the offers, especially consider the following points:
 - Have all your details and requests been considered correctly?
 - Into which bonus level are you classified?
 - Which deductible rates are assumed?
 - Do additional deductibles incur in damage cases abroad?

How does the Comparis rating help you?

An important tool to evaluate the different insurance offers is the Comparis rating. The better the benefits, bonus system and customer satisfaction, the higher the Comparis rating.

Comparis.ch developed special criteria in order to be able to rate the insurance benefits and the bonus systems. The consumer satisfaction results from the experiences of comparis.ch users with their insurance.

The individual insurance benefits are then evaluated on how well they cover the insured risk. In order to do so, exact evaluation rules have been defined for each risk type. With the help of experts' consultation, comparis.ch checked and further developed this criteria.

Customer satisfaction is based on the answers to the customer satisfaction survey by comparis.ch in which the users regularly evaluate their experiences with their own insurance.

The bonus system has a significant effect on the development of the premium. Therefore, Comparis rated the bonus systems of the different insurance companies for several car driver types:

The rating criteria are:

- How much time does it take until somebody is on the lowest premium level?
- How much more does the premium cost in the case of a claim after years of driving without any claims?
- How big are the level gaps in the premium levels over 100%?
- How much more does the premium averagely cost in the case of an upgrading after a claim?
- Does the bonus system apply to the whole damage insurance or only to the premium for collision damage?

The ratings apply to the following car driver profiles:

- 5 years (+/- 2 years) of claim-free driving
- 5 years (+/- 2 years) of claim-free driving, 1 claim
- New drivers (up to 2 years)
- Claim-free driving for many years
- Claim-free driving for many years, 1 claim in the last 5 years
- New drivers with 2 claims in the last 2 years
- Elderly driver with many years of driving experience, 3 claims in the last 4 years
- Crash-driver

When can you change your insurance?

- Change of premium: The insurance company can change the premiums or the General Conditions of Insurance (AVB) from the coming insurance year. The policyholder has to be informed about the new conditions at the latest up to 25 days before termination of the insurance year. If the policyholder does not agree to these, he/she can terminate the contract as of end of the insurance year. The termination letter has to reach the insurance company at the latest on the last day of the insurance year. With some insurances, this procedure only applies in the case of premium increases, with some also in the case of reductions (see General Conditions of Insurance)
- Expiration of contract: the insurance is effective for the term written in the policy. If the contract is not terminated as of this date, generally, it will be renewed for another year. The details are to be found in the General Conditions of Insurance (AVB) which are attached to the policy. The regular termination notices apply (see further below).
- Change of car owner: In the case of a change of owner, the rights and liabilities of the third party insurance are subrogated to the new owner. The new owner can terminate the contract within 14 days after the change. The third party insurance expires when the new vehicle registration certificate has been issued due to proof of insurance of another insurance company.

- Change of vehicle: In the case of a change of vehicle you can change the insurance. The premium is refunded pro-rata.
- Claim: After every claim for which the insurance makes a benefit, the contract can be terminated by both parties.
Termination through the policyholder: Possible up to 14 days after the information of the insurance company that they will cover the claim. The coverage expires when the insurance company receives the termination letter. The already paid premium is refunded pro-rata, except if the claim occurs in the first insurance year or is a total damage.
Termination through the insurance company: Possible at the latest at payment. Coverage expires 14 days after arrival of the termination. The premium is refunded pro-rata.

Terminate your previous insurance with a registered letter in due time. The termination letter must contain policy number, termination date as well as place, date and signature of the policyholder.

Example of a termination letter

Termination motor vehicle insurance, policy number x.xxx.xxx

<Place>, <Day, Month, Year>

Dear Sir or Madam,

I exercise my right of termination according to the General Conditions of Insurance and ask you to terminate the policy stated above as at <Date>.

Yours sincerely
<Name Surname>

<Signature>

Termination notices: Generally, a termination notice of three months applies (details in the chart down below).

Insurance	Insurance year ends	Termination notice
Allianz Suisse	31.12. or 30.06	3 months
Auto TCS	31.12.	3 months
AXA Winterthur	31.12	3 months
Basler	31.12	3 months
Basler- baloisedirect	31.12.	3 months
Generali	31.12	3 months
Helvetia	Date of contract conclusion	3 months
Mobilier	Date of contract conclusion	3 months
Nationale Suisse	31.12. or 30.06	3 months
smile.direct	Date of contract conclusion	1 month
Vaudoise	31.12	3 months
Vaudoise – Click2Drive.ch	31.12	1 month
Zurich	Date of contract conclusion	3 months
Zurich – Zurich Connect	Date of contract conclusion	3 months

Tip: When taking out a new insurance, select as short a term of contract as possible. Thus, you are more flexible and can benefit from a possible better offer more quickly.

Background information on the different insurances

On the following pages you will find helpful additional information and conditions of the different insurance products.

Third party insurance

Third party insurance is compulsory and regulated by law. It covers damages caused by your vehicle to others (damage of persons and property, but also loss of earnings caused by these damages). The guarantee limit generally amounts up to 100 m francs. Not covered by third party insurance are damages of your own car as well as drives without legitimate allowance (e.g. without driving licence).

Forgoing of reduction of benefits in the case of gross negligence is, depending on the insurance company, partly included or separately insurable.

When it comes to third party insurances, all insurance companies offer practically identical benefits. It is therefore worthwhile to especially consider the offered premium as well as the Comparis rating of bonus systems.

Partial cover insurance

The partial cover insurance is optional. It covers a range of risks which can be combined differently, depending on the insurance company. In detail, the risks are:

- Theft: Theft of the vehicle including damage to the vehicle in the case of attempted theft. The risk also depends on where you usually park your car (garage, private or public car park) Cars with anti-theft device have a smaller risk and the insurance less necessary. Some insurance companies demand for a higher deductible rate in the case of theft abroad.
- Acts of God: Damages to the car caused by Acts of God such as storms, snow and landslides, hail, rockfall, floods and snow load. The likelihood of such damages is small – except if you often are in the mountains or other dangerous areas. However, as the premiums are accordingly low, such an insurance is recommended.
- Fire: Damage to the own car caused by fire, lightning, explosions and short circuits. The older a car, the bigger the chance it might catch fire due to a technical flaw. If you want to play it safe, you should cover fire damages.
- Glass/breakage of glass: Covers defect window panes, partly also other parts of glass or glass substitute. If the insurance also covers costs for broken headlights and similar components, it usually is considerably more expensive, as these are costly and frequent claims.
- Roadkill: Covers damages to your vehicle caused by collisions with animals, e.g. with a deer. The risk of colliding with a deer or a boar is relatively small. However, if you regularly drive overland in the twilight, you should take out such an insurance.
- Acts of vandalism: If somebody maliciously brakes e.g. your car antenna, a windscreen wiper or the rearview mirror, pierces a tyre or soils the contents of the tank, the insurance covers the repair costs. The covered claims are generally listed in the General Conditions of Insurance (AVB).

- Martens: Damages to the vehicle caused by martens. Usually possible consequential damages are also covered. If your car is always parked in the garage at night, you rather do not need this insurance.
- Personal items: This insurance pays damaged or stolen luggage which has to be repaired or replaced due to an insured damage event. Generally, valuables and cash are excluded. Also, the compensation is usually limited. Make enquiries if these benefits are already included in your household insurance. In this case, this insurance is unnecessary.

As a general rule: The older your car, the smaller amount you will receive in the case of a total damage. Therefore, for older cars a partial cover insurance usually pays less than for newer ones.

Collision insurance

Collision insurance is optional. It covers self-inflicted damages to the own car.

Comprehensive insurance

Some insurances refer to the combination of partial cover insurance and collision insurance as comprehensive insurance.

There is no general rule if such an insurance is worthwhile. Collision insurances are rather taken out for newer cars. Leased vehicles need to be covered by a comprehensive insurance. Forgoing of reduction of benefits in the case of gross negligence is, depending on the insurance company, partly included or separately insurable.

Current value and replacement value supplement

With a damage insurance without replacement value supplement you maximally receive the current value, i.e. the current market value. For newer cars, usually the damage insurance is taken out with a replacement value supplement. This makes the premiums a bit higher, but the insurance pays averagely 20% more than the current market value in the case of total damage. This makes it possible to buy a comparatively new car. Replacement value supplement can usually only be taken out until the 7th year of running of the vehicle. Exceptions are Auto TCS, Basler and Vaudoise who cover replacement value supplement until more than the 10th year of running. A new replacement value supplement can usually only be taken out for a car which is maximally 5 years old.

If you are leasing a car, you have to take out a replacement value supplement. Due to the strong value loss of cars in the first years, replacement value supplement for new cars practically always pays.

Passengers' accident insurance

The passengers' accident insurance covers recovery costs, pays daily benefits in the case of hospital stay or inability to work and pays in cases of death and disability. It can be taken out separately for the driver, front-seat passenger or all passengers of the vehicle. This insurance are unnecessary for passengers who are insured against accidents at a health insurance or via their employer – which ought to be the case for all people living in Switzerland.

Term of contract

Avoid contracts over many years or demand a yearly termination right in order to stay flexible and be able to benefit from cheaper offers.

Bonus protection

The extra charge for bonus protection insurances for drivers who already are on the lowest bonus level is rather small. If your insurance company offers such a bonus protection, taking it out usually is worthwhile. Some insurances even automatically include this protection for clients who are on the lowest bonus level. The case is different for bonus protection insurances which allow for one claim per year without bonus loss: these supplementary insurances, which usually can be taken out on every bonus level, are usually expensive.
